Manushi Chillar makes

India proud once again

The Haryana girl Manushi Chillar won the coveted beauty title 17 years after Priyanka Chopra putting India on the global map once again. She became the sixth women from India to have won the crown. Other women from India who brought the Miss World crown home include Reita Faria (1996), Aishwarya Rain Bachchan (1994), Diana Haydon (1997), Yukta Mookhey (1999) and Priyanka Chopra (2000).

Before being crowned the Miss World, Chillar was studying medicine at the Bhagat Phool Singh Government Medical College for Women in Sonapat. She has completed her schooling from St. Thomas School in New Delhi. Her father is a doctor her mother is an academic working with the Institute of Human Behaviour and Allied Sciences.

Now that Manushi Chillar has already won the Miss World title she wants to pursue her medical studies and wants to become a cardio surgeon in future.

Manushi is also a trained Kuchipudi dancer besides being associated with a project for menstrual hygiene among women.

In December last year, Manushi Chillar won the Miss Campus Princess title in college while pursuing her MBBS course..

After that she bagged the 'Miss Haryana' title in April 2017 followed by the prestigious Femina Miss India title in June this year. She also won the Beauty with Purpose award for spreading awareness about menstrual hygiene among girls and women through her 'Project Shakti' campaign. As part of her campaign she visited 20 villages and treated over 5,000 women.

Having accomplished so much at such a young age, she went on to become Miss World 2017 defeating 118 contestants from different countries. She was crowned on 18 November 2017 by Stephanie Del Valle from Puerto Rico in Sanya, China. Stephanie was crowned Miss World in 2016.

Later she also attended the 2017 Global Entrepreneurship Summit held in Hyderabad as one of the speakers. She was also announced as the brand ambassador for Anaemia Free Haryana. Her campaign 'Project Shakti' has also received a government support of 18 crore by Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar to make sure the free availability of sanitary napkins across all government schools in Haryana. Manushi Chillar was also honoured with the Special Achievement Award at the 2017 CNN-IBN Indian of the Year Awards for making India proud by winning the Miss World 2017 title.

HOW IMPORTANT IS MARRIAGE for Gen Y?

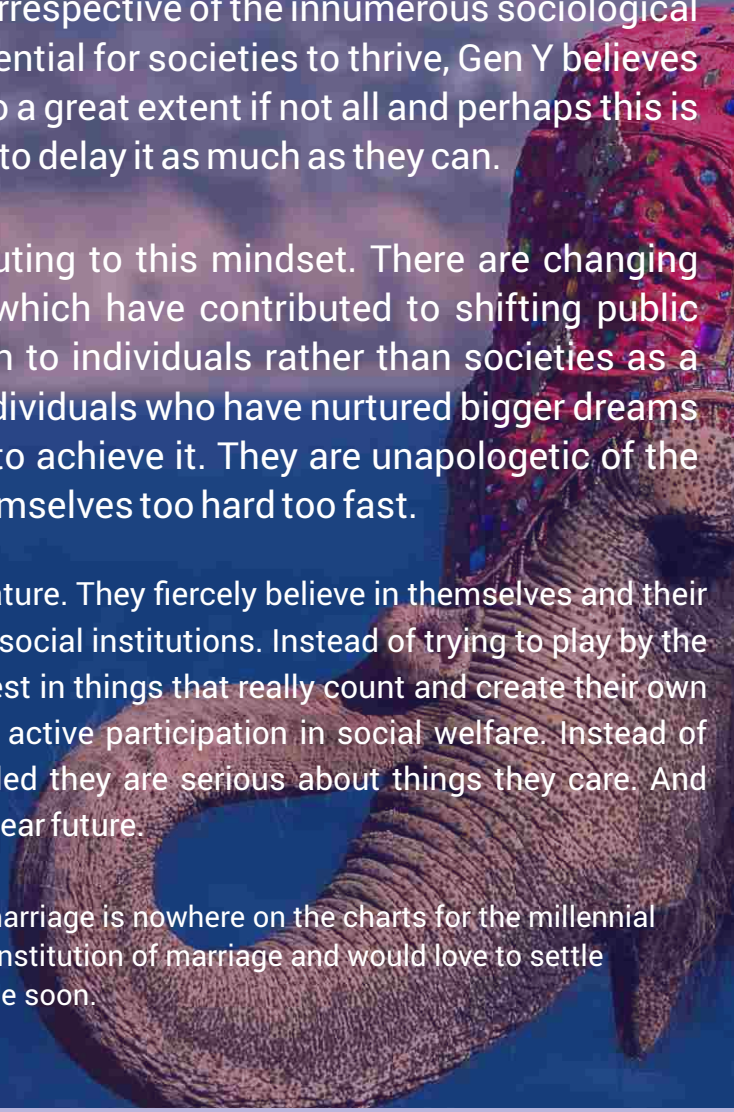

The moment we start talking about something as crucial as marriage it becomes extremely important to delve into the mind of Gen Y. Dubbed as the 'me me me generation' by Times magazine (in an article written in 2013), they seem to be split on the importance of marriage. While there is a bunch who still believes in the institution of marriage, the majority of Gen Y happens to be a marriage shy generation.

Phrases such as 'spouse hunting' and 'baby making' used by Emma Green in an Atlantic blog post (2014) sound like chores or obligations which the millennial generation is happy to release itself of. Irrespective of the innumerable sociological theories proving that marriages are essential for societies to thrive, Gen Y believes that marriages have become obsolete to a great extent if not all and perhaps this is the reason why they are trying their best to delay it as much as they can.

There are a number of factors contributing to this mindset. There are changing economic and demographic patterns which have contributed to shifting public attitudes; more attention is being given to individuals rather than societies as a whole. This generation is made up of individuals who have nurtured bigger dreams and know that they have the potential to achieve it. They are unapologetic of the fact that they have fallen in love with themselves too hard too fast.

Gen Y is known for its highly individualistic nature. They fiercely believe in themselves and their abilities and are ready to let go of the age old social institutions. Instead of trying to play by the society's rule they are more than ready to invest in things that really count and create their own rules. Take for instance their dedication and active participation in social welfare. Instead of being labeled as being narcissistic and spoiled they are serious about things they care. And marriage is not one of them, at least not in the near future.

However, it will be completely wrong to say that marriage is nowhere on the charts for the millennial generation. A majority of them still believe in the institution of marriage and would love to settle someday. It's just that that someday is not anytime soon.

There are several other factors that are at play. For instance they have seen their parents struggle and compromise while trying to make a relationship work just because they are stuck in it. Gen Y doesn't want to repeat the same mistake. Also, while earlier marriage used to be the starting point of adult life, these days it is no longer true. Gen Y wants to make sure that they are emotionally and financially settled before they start a new life. Moreover, this generation has got used to a new found freedom staying away from home and parents owing to factors such as job and studies and they just don't seem to be ready to compromise on it. So marriage is out of question unless and until they have found the right person with whom they can share the rest of their life instead of rushing into something just for the sake of it.

How brides have become experimental these days?

Wedding have always been regarded as big affairs. Besides, it is also very emotionally and physically draining. As against the popular belief brides along with everybody else have so many things to take care of than just look pretty. However, over the years there has been a tremendous change in the way brides approach marriage. Apart from a visible change in thinking brides have become very experimental in their sartorial choices.

No doubt they still want to look their best on this special day and will not compromise on their wedding trousseau at any cost and yet they have become very imaginative when it comes to choosing their bridal wear. As much as they want to dress up they also want to have fun on the most important day of their life. Modern brides these days are leaving no stone unturned to make sure that they not only appear gorgeous but are also not hindered by it to enjoy the fun moments. While lehenga choli still remains to be the most preferred choice, brides these days no longer want to be conservatively dressed. As a result there are lots of new options available to today's brides. Western silhouettes featuring Indian crafts have seen a rise among Indian brides. Take for instance lehengas with trail. They not only look sexy but look traditional besides being modern.

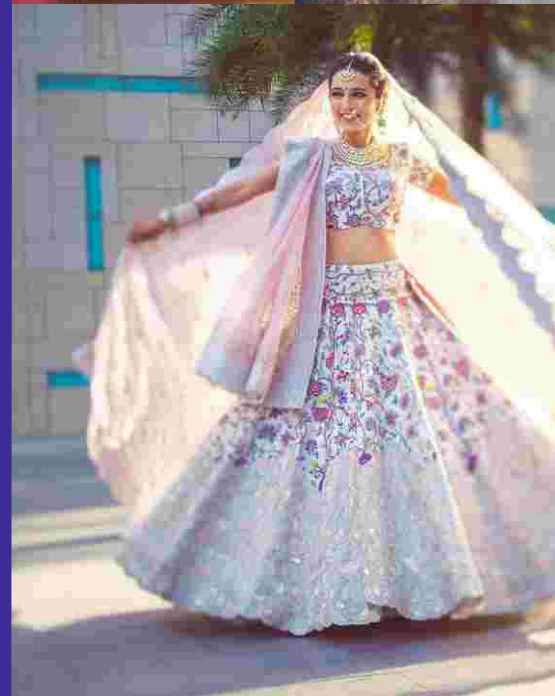

Moreover, there is also a change in the perception when it comes to experimenting with different colour. While colours such as pink and red are still preferred but colours such as blue, metallic silver, deep green and brown have also become common these days. Even those brides who don't opt of complete colour transition, they are open to pairing the main colours such as red and pink with others like mint green, blue and yellow etc. For instance, a blush dupatta with a red lehenga comes as the ideal wedding attire.

Moreover, there is also a change in the perception when it comes to experimenting with different colour. While colours such as pink and red are still preferred but colours such as blue, metallic silver, deep green and brown have also become common these days. Even those brides who don't opt of complete colour transition, they are open to pairing the main colours such as red and pink with others like mint green, blue and yellow etc. For instance, a blush dupatta with a red lehenga comes as the ideal wedding attire.

The most important thing is that brides these days don't want to compromise on the fun factor. They don't want to appear too conservative and want to look and feel cool and confident. And perhaps that is why the brides to be are opting for simple and easy to handle silhouettes which are both chic and traditional. They have also shown a preference towards lighter colours. This could be attributed to the fact that they are looking forward to reusing their wedding attire. As it happens bridal wear is worn only once and keeps lying around in the wardrobe for the rest of our life occupying all that unnecessary space. So it comes as a practical choice to reuse your wedding attire. Therefore they are opting for two-three layers to the garment so that it can be worn separately. Mix and match is another trend in bridal wear. The would-be brides are opting for separates and mixing and matching different colours, embroidery and fabrics to get the desired look.

Another major trend is the return of monotone. Apart from mixing and matching colours and textures, monotone is the first choice of would be brides. The reason is that as much as they want to look traditional they never want to compromise of the glamour. So whatever gives them the perfect chic look they go for it.

HANDY TIPS TO CHOOSE THE BEST BRIDAL LEHENGA?

Irrespective of the change in mindset and new emerging silhouettes, lehengas still remain an integral part of the bridal trousseau in India and perhaps that's why the moment you start thinking about marriage the first thing that crosses your mind is finding your dream lehenga. The would be brides leave no stone unturned to get the best lehenga for their big day as it plays such an important role in deciding the overall look of the bride. Sometimes the whole process is so exhausting that we ultimately end up settling for less. There is so much struggle and tiredness that results from the innumerable visits to the market. Therefore we have brought you some handy tips to save you all the exhaustion and get the lehenga of your dreams to rock the bridal look like a princess. Browse the following before you start shopping for the perfect lehenga for your wedding.

1 PAY ATTENTION TO THE BLOUSE

When picking the bridal lehenga, brides happen to focus more on the lehenga skirt and don't pay much attention to the blouse or choli. If the look is too heavy they will even opt for having some intricate work removed from the blouse rather than the lehenga. What they don't seem to understand that blouses are no less important to the overall look. They ignore the fact that being in close proximity with the face blouse can affect your complexion. Also, most of the wedding pictures will show their upper body only where the blouse and dupatta will be visible. So when shopping for your bridal wear always make sure that you pay attention to the blouse too and choose the best one

3 DUPATTA LINING IS IMPORTANT

A gorgeous looking heavy border dupatta will be important to get the desired bridal look but at the same instance it is also important to pay attention to the inner lining of the border since the lining of your dupatta will be visible the moment your dupatta goes over your head. Also, the colour of the lining will reflect on your face affecting your complexion. Hence, if you are shopping for bridal wear don't forget to pay attention to these small details to get your bridal look

2 KEEP A WATCH ON YOUR BUDGET

Weddings are expensive affairs and you have to be practical with your expenses especially when shopping for wedding lehenga. One great trick to save ample money on your bridal wear without having to compromise on the quality is to ask for a sangeet lehenga instead of a bridal one. The moment you ask for a wedding lehenga the prices will automatically go high and opting for a sangeet lehenga will not only save you some good amount of money it will also give you the desired look and feel. Also, this way you will come across more variety and can easily get your dream lehenga.

4 CHECK EVERYTHING IN NATURAL LIGHT

Don't trust store lighting when shopping for your wedding lehenga. Store lighting offers a different effect and can even make the fabric appear different so the wise thing to do is to check the outfit in natural light if you don't want to be disappointed later on. The great thing is that natural light is easily available anywhere. All you have to do is to step outside the store and examine your outfit in the natural light to get a better idea of the colour and look.

TO FLAUNT YOUR BEST FEATURES on your wedding day

It would be nothing less than weird to find a girl who doesn't fantasize about her marriage. Not delving into the cliché that weddings have become these days, marriage still remain to be one of the most important days in a woman's life and perhaps that's why the brides to be don't want to take any chance with their look on this day. They want everything including their clothes, hair and makeup to be perfect. While clothes and other arrangements are stuffs that depend a great deal on personal taste, makeup is something depends on your facial features and complexion. It is only natural for brides to seek advice from others and browse various tips and tricks to get their makeup right on their wedding. While seeking a profession makeup artist comes as the ideal thing to do as it will save you all the tension besides guaranteeing you a flawless look that will not only last longer but also survive all the crying and hugging. However, some women still prefer to not depend on makeup artist and do their makeup themselves. So if you happen to be one of those women who would like do your makeup yourself even on your wedding, these tips are for you.

PREP YOUR SKIN FOR THE BIG DAY

If you have been lazy with your skin care lately it's time to get serious with it if you don't want to deal with those annoying skin problems especially during your wedding. Start getting regular facials four five weeks before your wedding as it will make huge difference to your skin.

DON'T HESITATE FROM DOING A TRIAL MAKEUP

If you are not much into makeup, products such as foundation, primer and eye-shadows might sound alien. So it is recommended that you acquaint yourself with all the possible products you are planning to use and try it on your skin to find out how it looks so as to get the desired look on the big day. Using primer before applying foundation makes your makeup stays put for longer and also offers a smooth finish. Also finding the best products and brands that will work for your skin is very important to avoid any last minute disappointment and maintain your radiant glow

ADD CONCEALERS TO YOUR MAKE UP KIT

With all your long awaited dreams and fantasies coming to realization with marriage, craving perfection in everything is only natural and this sometimes leads to so much exhaustion which is visible on your face and skin. However this being the most important day in your life you don't really want to look tired and sleepy. Applying some concealer to hide those dark circles can do the trick to make you appear flawless. It will also help you hide those last minute breakouts and give you the desired look.

THIS ISN'T THE BEST TIME TO EXPERIMENT

all women desire a flawless makeup look on their big day and this surely not the time to try on a new makeup trick, look or a new product. It is always good to stick to your classic look on this day to make sure that you appear the best version of yourself and shine as a bride. Start by researching on wedding makeup looks and decide which makeup tricks work best for your feature and your wedding dress. Say for instance if dark smokey eyes are not your thing it's not to go for it on the big day as it may spoil your look. Spend ample amount of time to find out your best look and try to stick to it.

KEEP A TOUCHUP KIT HANDY

No doubt you will be treated like a princess on your wedding day but that doesn't guarantee that you will be spared those hugs and kisses, food, drinks and those endless streams of tears. So as much as it is wise to stick to waterproof makeup also make sure that you keep a touch up kit handy with necessary stuffs such as blush, cotton swabs, tissues, lipstick and translucent powder etc. as these will come handy and help you stay pretty.

Virushka marks
A HAPPY ENDING TO 2017

How can a wedding issue ever be complete without a mention of one of the most celebrated power couple getting hitched? So for those of you who are still drooling over the adorable photos from Anushka and Virat wedding, let's have a look at how the couple's relationship evolved over the years.

The two are said to have met in 2013, while shooting for head & shoulder shampoo advertisement. Since then they have shared many adorable moments together and the media has done everything to highlight this. To not let go of this unnoticed.

While Virat has always been vocal about his love for Anushka, social media only added to their wonderful love story making us envy them often.

We almost couldn't help but envy Anushka when Virat blew a kiss with his bat to her lady love after scoring a half century during India's game against Sri Lanka at Hyderabad.

The same year, Virat visited Anushka while she was shooting for Bombay Velvet and even flew to Udaipur to celebrate her birthday. This only made us wish for the dream boyfriend who is cute, caring, handsome and successful too.

"Shame on those people who have been having a go at anushka for the longest time and connecting every negative thing to her. Shame on those people calling themselves educated. Shame on blaming and making fun of her when she has no control over what i do with my sport. If anything she has only motivated and given me more positivity."

In 2015, however, their relationship suffered a good deal after Anushka Sharma was trolled over social media for Virat Kohli's bad performance but Virat being the perfect boyfriend stood by Anushka and even shut the trolls with his bold post on instagram.

The following year the social media was abound with the news of their breakup but soon they were seen hanging together again thus putting an end to the rumours of their breakup.

Recently in an interview with Aamir Khan, Virat openly spoke about Anushka Sharma and appreciated her personality while being thankful about how Anushka has made him a better person.

Anushka has got a wonderful, warm personality. I've worked with a lot of actresses she's a very wonderful and honest person like you [Aamir] said. She's very straightforward and honest. She's a pleasure to work with.

Having survived many ups and downs, they have come this far to be finally called husband and wife. The duo married on 11th December 2017 in Italy.

HOW TO WEAR glitter boots?

#let'sgetsparkly

As soon as the playful boot trend debuted on the 2017 fall runway, chances are both your feet and feed must have got a taste of the trend. However for all the sartorially shy people out there this trend seems too bold to even attempt in their day to day outfit game. The wonderful thing about it is that the eye-catching embellishment is not limited to boots only but is also making its way onto other silhouettes such as the mule and block heel in case you have been searching for some alternative. But since the boot season is officially upon us, it's time to renew our footwear collection and guess if there can be anything better than a sparkling pair of boots. Now if you are wondering how to wear the IT shoe, trust us with these amazing ideas we have specially curated to help you get into the vibe and look your shimmery best.

STARTING SMALL IS THE KEY

The best way to break into sparkling boots is to opt for shorter versions such as ankle booties. They will give you the much needed punch without making you go overboard. You can also opt for brighter hues to have fun while also making a statement. Wear it with your party dresses and rock the look.

DON'T BE SHEEN SHY

A glitter overdose on your feet will require some sort of sheen on your clothes too and keeping things basic is obviously not going to work. Adding a metallic trench coat sounds a wonderful idea. You can also try shades like cheery popsickle-red and wear this attention grabber of a piece feeling chic and comfy.

TRY SOME UNLIKELY COMBINATION

A glitter overdose on your feet will require some sort of sheen on your clothes too and keeping things basic is obviously not going to work. Adding a metallic trench coat sounds a wonderful idea. You can also try shades like cheery popsickle-red and wear this attention grabber of a piece feeling chic and comfy.

TRY PARTIAL GLITTER

Now that we have the perfect standout shoe, it's time to get ready to make a statement but if you are not feeling very confident about it try partial glitter boots. They are easy to wear and can be easily teamed with lots of stuffs giving you many insta-worthy moments.

WEAR IT WITH WHITE

Got your hands on the glitter boots but still aren't feeling very confident to wear them? Worry not. Team them with something white to get the sweet and sexy vibe. Glitter and whites looks very elegant and sophisticated and is surely going to give you the much needed result.

Trend alert:

WIDE LEGGED CORDUROY PANTS

Corduroy, a close cousin of velvet, debuted on the fall 2017 runway and for once and all established the fact that it is no longer the preserve of traditional menswear as it has always been thought of. Velvet is believed to be the stuff of cocktail parties whereas corduroy was always thought to be more rugged which ultimately limited it to the menswear section. However, the presence of corduroy on the fall 2017 runway made it a chic thing every fashionista would like to have in her wardrobe. Also, the runway offered a host of wonderful silhouettes to pick from but what appealed to us most were the wide legged corduroy pants. So here is to all the self proclaimed 'pants girl' who want to bring some fun in their pants game. Update your pants section with something new and go rock it with abandon.

The visible ridges make corduroy pants amazingly appealing. Match them with silk blouses to get that sexy vibe.

Ease yourself into the retro vibe with corduroy pants teamed with printed blouses and a messy hair updo.

Team it with a knit sweater for a cool & casual look. We guarantee you would like to wear these pants past their trending expiration date.e.

Since we already know that nothing can work as a perfect replacement of black pants. So why not let it be corduroy? A black wide legged corduroy pant comes as a holy grail for the winter season. Pair them with just anything to add a refreshing touch to your winter look.

You are most likely to be impressed by their sturdiness. Get one in bright colour to finish your look with a bit of attitude.

There are days when all of us spend our days in front of the Television watching those 'clichéd & devoid of any fun saas bahu saga' for the lack of anything better but no more. There are amazing web series available to anyone with an internet connection that will completely change the way you binge. Moreover, these series are fresh and present a modern take on things that concern us in a fun and light way. The varied topic includes everything from gay rights, long distance relationship, a girl trying to make big in a new city, siblings going on a road trip and what not. Once you get addicted to them, there is nothing better you can do in your free time but watch these amazing web series.

FASHION & STYLE

picks up 5 amazing Indian web series that should be on your watch list.

WHAT THE FOLK.

A five part series, What The Folks, is a must watch. It deals with breaking age old stereotypes, old parents trying to overcome generation gaps and everybody else learning to accept each other despite them having different views. What brings it on the list of Fashion and Style magazine is the unnerving honesty employed in the portrayal of the characters with some funny dinner table conversation thrown in and that is what makes it real and relatable to all of us. The series starts as young man, Nikhil, played by Veer Rajwant Singh, moves in with his in-laws. Watch the whole episodes to find out how it goes.

THE OTHER LOVESTORY

The 'other' love story happens to be the first Indian web series that deals with two young girls falling in love with each other at a time when 'lesbianism' was not a term widely known and the society took pride in being homophobic. Spread over 12 episodes, the series is set in the 90s and tells the story of Aadya and Aachal as they take their feelings for each other forward with handwritten letters and phone conversations over the landline. The feelings are original and innocent and are guaranteed to hit you right in the feels. Don't forget to check it out if you haven't done so already.

TRIPLING

Interspersed with the right amount of drama and realism, Tripling is about three siblings who embark on an unplanned road trip. All of us have a strange relationship with our siblings. We love them, we hate them, we do everything to get rid of them and yet we miss them when they are not with us. Road trips are often associated with self discovery and adventure and here are three people who have nothing in common and are dealing with personal struggles in different ways. Add this on your watch list for it will not disappoint you in the least.

ALISHA

If you are tired of all the over dramatic stuff playing on your TV here is the perfect web series to make up for all of them. Alisha is fun to watch, she is bold, outspoken and doesn't care what people really think of her. Besides, the series is not only a treat for all the fashion lovers out there but also has a detective story going on side by side. Alisha is all about a fashion student who moves back to India (Mumbai) after four years in Los Angeles.
